Honors Thesis Personal Reflection

I would like to thank all of the professors I've had in the English Department at Notre Dame who helped to make me a better thinker and writer, preparing me to take on this project. Particularly, I would like to thank Professor Susan Harris for preparing us for the thesis process and my advisor, Professor Jesse Lander, for his excellent insight and encouragement all along the way.

I would also like to thank my fellow English thesis-writers. I am so grateful that we had a class together in the fall. You all inspired me to work harder, and I especially appreciated the encouragement of our group when we were learning remotely this spring.
